How to Read the Budget: The budget is laid out with income to the left and expenditures to the right. Expenditures in gray are the total expenditures for that category. Salary expenditures are itemized below each category but are already included in the gray boxes. The black boxes designating the totals are simply the sum of all the gray boxes. Page one totals are the summative totals. Pages 2 and 3 give details for how education and other programs are broken down. So the total budget incomes and outlays are on page 1. Revenues shown as "Dedicated" are committed to particular expenditures. For instance, revenues for the

Description of Programs

City Health Clinic: Provides free health care to those who qualify (Medicaid recipients, those with incomes less than 150% of the poverty level) and pay as you can care for those above 150% of the poverty level. Services include wellness check-ups, pediatrics, screenings, mammograms/gynecological, pre-natal care, non-emergency outpatient, health consultation, family planning. Abortion services are provided consistent with Florida State and Federal law, but are not part of the free health care program. There are twenty paid staff members, including two doctors and four nurses. A number of local doctors volunteer their time to participate in the program.

Neighborhood Watch Program: Was created a couple of years ago to provide organize neighborhood watch volunteers in communities in and neighborhoods participating in the program. Funding comes from Neighborhood associations and city revenues. Neighborhood watch personnel conduct civilian patrols in designated neighborhoods and coordinate activities with the local police department. Participants can be identified by their Yellow "Neighborhood Watch" T-shirts, caps and flashlights. Paid staff includes two lawyers and one law enforcement consultant

Heritage Museum: The Andosciaville Heritage Museum preserves Andosciaville's colorful history, including the original writings of the city founder, Porpherio Andoscia. It sponsors educational programs, lectures and cultural events. The Heritage Museum is very proud of it's Native American program, emphasizing the cultures of indigenous people of the area. Paid staff includes an Archeologist and an historian as well as a professional archivist.

Youth Club: The Youth Club was designed to help curb juvenile delinquency. It is a safe place for young people to gather and participate in informal activities such as basketball, field play and baseball. The Youth Club also organizes formal activities such as local sports, little league, football and basketball, as well as art and music programs.

Juvenile Halfway House: The Juvenile Halfway House works with between 12 and 24 adjudicated youth. It especially concentrates on those youth coming from broken homes, facing addiction among parents/guardians, or personal addiction. The goal is to keep juvenile offenders out of the local prison. Paid staff include two counselors and one on staff psychologist.

Historical Preservation Society: The Historical Preservation Society oversees the maintenance of Andosciaville's many historical monuments, including the home of founder, Porpherio Andoscia, and as many as twenty antique homes, buildings and places of historical significance. Funding comes from membership in the Preservation Society as well as city funding.
